The first round was conducted on 14th February 2020. The first round is an online round where all the participating teams are given two cases to which they have to give their best possible solution.

The cases are as below:

XYZ company is manufacturing chemicals for textile paints and rubber industries both organic and inorganic . From it's inception, grades for the chemists who were operating the various plants and for the engineers who were maintaining them were the same , about two or three years ago, the company noticed that it's engineers were leaving one by one, even the new recruits did not stay for more than a few months, investigations showed that the engineers were getting better offers. The company therefore decided to get new engineers at higher grades. This created inequity between the salaries of chemists with eight to ten years experience and the engineers who had two to three years practical experience after their graduation. The chemists represented to the company that their grades should also be revised . Management explained to engineers who were maintaining them were the same , about two or three years ago, the company noticed that it's engineers were leaving one by one, even the new recruits did not stay for more than a few months, investigations showed that the engineers were getting better offers. The company therefore decided to get new engineers at higher grades. This created inequity between the salaries of chemists with eight to ten years experience and the engineers who had two to three years practical experience after their graduation. The chemists represented to the company that their grades should also be revised . Management explained to them that their company was comparatively small with low profit margin and therefore could not afford to increase everybody's salary . Further engineers were being paid higher salary because their market value at that time was higher. This created dissatisfaction in the chemists ranks and there was a general decline in their initiative and interest. They were also not cooperating with engineers as before and were blaming engineers for recent increase in breakdowns which was resulting in reduced production and profits. On the other hand, engineers were blaming chemists for not taking enough care of machines during day to day operations. Further more some of the engineers finding themselves unable to cope with the increased number of breakdowns were feeling frustrated and were leaving the company.

Analyze the above case and give your suggestion to improve the situation.

Case 2:

Vista Hospital was built four years ago and currently has a workforce of 190 people. The hospital is small, but it is efficient .The management has decided to increase its capacity from 50 to 200 beds. The administrator, Gosh ,feels that the major problem with this proposed increase is the hospital will lose its efficiency." I want to hire people who are just like our current team of personnel-hardworking, dedicated, talented, and able to interact well with patients. If we triple the number of employees, I do not see how it will be possible to maintain our quality of patient care. We are going to lose our family atmosphere. We will be inundated with mediocrity, and we will end up being like every other institution in the local area - large and uncaring." The chairman of the board is also concerned about the effect of hiring such a large number of employees. However he believes that Gosh is over-reacting. "it cannot be hard to find people who like our current staff. There must be a lot of people out there who are just as good. What you need to do is develop a plan of action that will allow you to carefully screen those who will fit into your current organizational culture, and those who will not. It is not going to be as difficult as you believe. Trust me. Everything will work out just fine ``.As a result of the chairman's comments, Gosh has decided that the most effective way of dealing with the situation is to develop a plan of action. She intends to meet with her administrative group and determine the best way of screening incoming candidates, and then helping those who are hired to become socialized in terms of hospital's culture. Gosh has called a meeting for the day after tomorrow. At that time, she intends to discuss her ideas, get suggestions from her people, and then formulate a plan of action.

- 1.What can Gosh and her staff do to select the type of entry level candidates they want?
2. How can Gosh ensure that those who are hired come to accept the core cultural values of the hospital? What steps would you recommend?

By the 16th February submissions were closed and by 17th February evening all the responses were studied and a total of 30 teams were shortlisted for the second phase of Business Combat.
